

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A configuration carries a child upon the shoulders of an adult. The device comprises a seat section partly encircling the neck of the adult, and leg sections extending from the end portion's semi-circular seat section. When in use the leg sections reach down over the chest of the adult. The seat section is a cushion saddle and the leg section is equipped with stirrups or footrests for the child's feet, the stirrups at least partly carrying the child's weight.